Application for the 2021-22 Rob Kling Social Informatics Fellowship

Application due date: October 20, 2021

Award notification date: December 20, 2021

The Rob Kling Center for Social Informatics is pleased to announce the 2021-2022 Rob Kling Social Informatics Fellowship. This fellowship of $7,500 for the academic year of 2021-2022 will be used to support a Luddy doctoral student who is pursuing research in Social Informatics and interested in conducting critical studies on the impact and consequences of computerization, the Internet, or digital media on individuals, organizations, or society. The winner of this year's fellowship will be announced by December 20, 2021. This award may be renewable for a second year.

Email your completed application to Pnina Fichman (fichman@indiana.edu) by October 20, 2021. The Rob Kling Social Informatics Fellowship Committee will consider only complete applications. Preference will be given to students who have advanced to candidacy, although all doctoral students at the Luddy School of Informatics, Computing and Engineering, Indiana University, Bloomington are encouraged to apply.

Applicants must submit 1) completed application form; 2) a brief statement (up to four pages) describing their research; 3) a copy of their transcript; 4) a CV; and 5) two letters of reference. In order to qualify, applicants must have submitted the FAFSA and have demonstrated financial need. International applicants must complete additional steps to prove financial need and should contact Michelle Dunbar-Sims (midunbar@indiana.edu) for more information prior to applying.
